

The Rev. Canon Scott G. Slater
Diocese of Maryland

Scott has served as Canon to the Ordinary in the Diocese of Maryland since 2010. Raised in a small town in Florida, Scott came into the Church as a teenager. While pursuing a career in architecture, he was also heavily involved with youth ministry as a young adult. He met his future spouse Becky on a church retreat and six years later they were off to seminary. Two sons came along and they settled into life in the D.C./Baltimore metro area.

He and Becky love the seasonal rhythm of the mid-Atlantic. His seasons of ordained ministry have included school chaplaincy, parish ministry, and serving on a diocesan staff. Each move has drawn the Slaters further north. A passion for social justice and urban ministry was born from his love of walking. He regularly leads prayer walks in Baltimore City to remember victims of gun violence by name on the streets where they died. He is also a vocal advocate for people in recovery from addiction like himself.

The Slaters are ready for a new adventure as empty-nesters.
